

I'm a 16 year old person living in Denmark. I'm born in Denmark, but my parents are from Japan. I just finished primary school in Denmark and am now considering what my next step should be. I'm fluent in danish.

What educational path would you recommend for me?

Thanks for sharing that — you're in an exciting stage of your life! In Denmark, after finishing primary school (folkeskole), you have several educational paths to choose from depending on your interests, strengths, and future goals.

Here's a breakdown of your main options, along with some personalized suggestions:

🎓 1. Gymnasiale uddannelser (Upper Secondary Education)

These are academic upper-secondary schools that prepare you for university.

A) STX (Almen studentereksamen) – General Upper Secondary School

- Broad education with humanities, science, and social science.
- Good if you're not sure what to study at university yet.
- Offers strong Danish and foreign language focus — your Japanese background could be a real strength here.

B) HHX (Højere Handelseksamen) – Higher Commercial Examination Programme

- Focus on business, economics, and international trade.
- A great choice if you're interested in business, marketing, or working internationally — possibly linking Denmark and Japan.

C) HTX (Højere Teknisk Eksamen) – Higher Technical Examination Programme

- Focus on science, technology, and innovation.
- Great if you're into math, physics, IT, or engineering.

D) HF (Højere Forberedelseksamen) – Higher Preparatory Examination

- A 2-year program, more focused and practical.
- Often used by students who want to get into health or social work-related studies.

🔧 2. Erhvervsuddannelser (Vocational Education and Training, EUD)

- Combines school with internships in real companies.
- Leads directly to a profession (e.g., electrician, chef, healthcare worker, carpenter).

- You can still go to university afterward with the right combination.

Why it might suit you: If you prefer practical learning and want to start working earlier. Some programs even offer international opportunities — especially valuable with your Japanese background.

3. International or Japanese-Linked Education

- You could consider international high schools (like IB - International Baccalaureate).
 - Some international schools in Denmark offer English-based education, which could open doors to global universities, including in Japan.
 - You might also consider spending a year or two in Japan (if you speak the language or want to improve it), which could strengthen both your cultural and academic profile.

Personal Recommendation (based on what you shared):

Since you're fluent in Danish and born/raised in Denmark but have Japanese heritage, you're in a unique position to bridge two cultures. Depending on your interests:

- Interested in university later, but unsure of what field? → STX is a good, general option.
 - Interested in business, languages, or international work? → HHX could help you prepare for international business or economics.
 - Interested in science, tech, or engineering? → Go for HTX.
 - Want a more hands-on approach with quicker access to a job? → Explore EUD.
 - Interested in international education or Japanese connections? → Look into IB or possibly study exchange programs in Japan later.

Would you like help narrowing it down based on your interests (e.g., what subjects you like, what kind of work you imagine doing, etc.)? That would help me give you even more specific advice.
